PROPERS OF THE MASS

Epistle Phil 3:17-21; 4:1-3

Brethren: Be imitators of me, and mark those who walk after the pattern you have in us. For many walk, of whom I have told you often and now tell you even weeping, that they are enemies of the Cross of Christ. Their end is ruin, their god is the belly, their glory is in their shame, they mind the things of earth. But our citizenship is in heaven from which also we eagerly await a Saviour, our Lord Jesus Christ, Who will re-fashion the body of our lowliness, conforming it to the body of His glory by exerting the power by which He is able also to subject all things to Himself. So then, my brethren, beloved and longed for, my joy and my crown, stand fast thus in the Lord, beloved. I entreat Evodia and I exhort Syntyche to be of one mind in the Lord. And I beseech you also, my loyal comrade, help them, for they have toiled with me in the gospel, as have Clement and the rest of my fellow-workers whose names are in the book of life.

Gospel Matt 9:18-26

At that time, as Jesus was speaking to the crowds, behold, a ruler came up and worshipped Him, saying, "Lord, my daughter has just now died; but come and lay Your hand upon her, and she will return to life." And Jesus arose and followed him, and so did His disciples. Now a woman who for twelve years had been suffering from hemorrhage, came up behind him and touched the tassel of His cloak saying to herself, "If I touch but His cloak I shall be saved." But Jesus, turning and seeing her, said, "Take courage, daughter; your faith has saved you." And the woman was restored to health from that moment. And when Jesus came to the ruler's house, and saw the flute players and the crowd making a din, He said, "Begone, the girl is asleep, not dead." And they laughed Him to scorn. But when the crowd had been put out, He went in and took her by the hand; and the girl arose. And the report of this spread throughout all that district.

Twenty-third Sunday after Pentecost

Resurrection of the soul through the grace of justification

The Gospel mentions only three visible resurrections wrought by Jesus Christ; but those which He wrought invisibly are counted by the thousands, says St. Augustine. And oh, how much more gratifying to His divine heart are these! All things of which spiritual death has stripped the soul, beauty, merits, dignity, acquired rights, all are restored to it by sanctifying grace, when it has the happiness to recover God's friendship. It is a deposed and captive king reascending his throne. If the resurrection of the daughter of Jarius, of the widow's son of Naim, and of Lazarus, was each an occasion of great joy to their families, we know how far greater is the joy in heaven over the conversion of one sinner.

But how will the priest merit to become the instrument of that conversion? By following the example of the prince of the synagogue, whose grief and joy are related in the Gospel of this day. He sees his daughter at the point of death. He has immediate recourse to the Author of life. He draws nigh unto Jesus, adores Him, fearlessly entreats Him. His grief is his sufficient excuse. 'O Lord,' he says, 'my daughter is even now dead, but come, lay Thy hand upon her, and she shall live!' According to St. Mark, the ruler 'besought Him much.' (Mark, v.) When doing God's work, let us always put our chief reliance upon God, let our confidence be as unlimited as His power and goodness. (Fr. De Goesbriand)

A reminder of the diocesan directives we are following:

- Except in the case of children under 2 years of age and persons with health issues, masks are to be worn as face covering the entire time parishioners attend Mass or any other liturgical event in a parish, including sacramental Confession. They are not permitted to be lowered at any time while in the church except to receive Holy Communion. Those unable to wear a mask are asked to sit toward the back of the church.
- Social distancing is to be observed. The measure of 6 feet between individuals and family groups is to be maintained while seated and moving. Groups are not to gather outside of the church for social time. Face masks should be worn until a person has left the church property and distanced himself or herself from the other congregants.
- Sanitization of public spaces takes place after every liturgical gathering in our churches.
